TO THE
REVEREND THE MINISTERS, AND TO THE
PROFESSORS OF THE GOSPEL, OF EVERY DENOMINATION,
THIS EXCELLENT SERMON
IS HUMBLY INSCRIBED,
AND,
WITH GREAT DEFERENCE,
SUBMITTED TO THEIR SERIOUS CONSIDERATION,
BY THE EDITOR.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE following invaluable Sermon was preached, now some years ago, upon a very solemn occasion, before an assembly of divines at Philadelphia. It was so cordially received by the audience (which is very seldom the case with heart-searching discourses like this), that, at their earnest desire, it was sent to the press; and the late valuable Mr. Gilbert Tennent prefixed his warm recommendation, which, being of considerable length, and not so important as to its matter, was therefore thought unnecessary for a future edition. Indeed, the sermon will fully recommend itself to every serious Christian, and stands in need of no other comment than the reader's own heart and experience. There never was a time, when such a discourse could be more expedient than at present. We have much preaching and professing; and we cannot have too much of either, upon a right foundation: But a very cursory observation may convince us, that the text of this sermon is as much forgotten by some, as the intent of all preaching is abused by others. As a minister has no dispensation to display himself; so his hearers should consider, that he is not appointed to please them. They have both one common Master, to whom, above all things, they are to look; and not to the glory or amusement of each other. A minister, upon this ground, will have the truest respect from those, whom grace hath respected; and he ought to rejoice, though he meet with none at all, if his conscience testifies, that, in simplicity and godly sincerity, not with fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God, he has fully declared the gospel of Jesus Christ. That both preachers and hearers may be urged to examine their own hearts, and prove their own selves, is the sole design of the editor in republishing this sermon; and he will rejoice, if it be found in any degree as acceptable to others, as it hath been instructive and profitable to himself.

2 C O R. iv. 5.

*For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus

W A S I to give a brief and summary description of man's original apostacy in few words, I would chuse to say, That it was a departing from G O D the author and fountain of blessedness, and retiring into himself as his last and ultimate end: And that the sum of his moral depravity consists in an habitual disposition to treat himself, in the same manner that he ought to treat the G O D of H E A V E N; i. e. to love himself supremely, and seek himself ultimately and finally, and set up himself, in one shape or another, as the grand center to which all the lines of his busy thoughts, anxious cares, and subtle projects, bend and terminate.

W H I L E he continued in his original state of moral rectitude, that G O D, who was the author of his being, was his beginning and end, his interest and attraction, his desire and delight, and in a word his A L L. But when sin took place in his heart, it warp'd the unhappy creature from his G O D to himself, insomuch that S E L F is now become A L L to corrupt and depraved nature, even as G O D was once A L L to nature uncorrupted and undepraved. Selfishness is therefore now become the most active and reigning principle in fallen nature, and, like the first wheel in a grand machine, sets the whole world in motion. For, if we survey the conduct of busy mortals, in the various ranks and degrees, characters and circumstances of life, we shall easily perceive that SELF is the IDOL they are naturally disposed to worship, and SELFISHNESS the grand interest to which they are by nature entirely devoted.

WE find ourselves in the midst of an active, busy world, the inhabitants of which are ever engaged in some vigorous pursuits. But what are they pursuing? What is the governing principle of their actions? And what the center to which they bend and terminate? Are they laboring for GOD as their ultimate end, or for THEMSELVES? When the merchant compasseth sea and land, in search of a worldly treasure; does he this for GOD, or for HIMSELF? When the soldier boldly enters the field of battle, faces death in its most hideous forms, and opens his bosom to the most pregnant dangers; does he this for the honor of GOD, or for the honor of HIMSELF? When the industrious tradesman rises early, and sits up late, and eats the bread of carefulness, and fills up his swift succeeding hours, with the most painful and assiduous labor; does he labor ultimately for GOD, or for HIMSELF? When men of superior rank, and greater affluence, devote their wasting moments to the fashionable diversions, and pleasurable entertainments of life; do they this to please and glorify GOD, or to please and gratify gratify SELF? In a word, what is it in general that men live for, and what are they doing in the world? What are their thoughts spent, their words spoken, their hands employed, and their time improved for? Is it for GOD, or THEMSELVES? Alas, how easy it is to see the awful prevalence of this corrupt and accursed principle! That it is SELF, that rules kingdoms, that governs families, drives on their trade, manages their worldly business; that CHUSES EVEN THEIR RELIGION, and influences their whole conduct; that lies at the root and bottom of all their actual sins, makes them ungodly, and keeps them ungodly, and is their very ungodliness itself.

AND, O! that it might be said, with undoubted truth, that, notwithstanding the general prevalence of this detestable principle, among the various ranks and orders of men, there is at least one ORDER, exempted from the general charge; and that NONE, who sustain the sacred character, are influenced by mercenary principles, or selfish motives; but that each individual could safely adopt the language of the apostle, in behalf of himself and brethren; 'We preach NOT OURSELVES, but CHRIST JESUS the LORD.'

IN the preceding chapter, the apostle had been magnifying his office, on account of the excellency and glory of that gospel, which was the subject of it: And, in this, he vindicates the ministry of the apostles and gospel ministers, from the unjust accusations of false and judaizing teachers, who had charged them with walking in craftiness, and handling the word of the LORD deceitfully (a). He avouches their sincerity, that they renounced the hidden things of dishonesty; and, as a proof of their integrity, he assures them, that their business was to preach CHRIST, and not themselves. " We preach not ourselves, says he, and therefore are not a set of designing men, as our accusers would insinuate. SELF is neither the MATTER, nor the END of our preaching; we neither teach our own notions, passions, or prejudices, for the word of GOD, nor do we seek ourselves, or the advancement of our secular interest and glory: But we preach CHRIST JESUS the LORD, and endeavour to make him known to the world, in each of these amiable characters, as the MESSIAH, the CHRIST of GOD, as JESUS, the saviour of men, and as LORD and king in his church; and to advance the interest of his glorious kingdom among men."

FROM these words, I shall attempt to shew;

I. WHAT that SELFISHNESS is, which the apostle here disclaims; or, when ministers may be said to preach themselves.

II. I SHALL consider some of the operations of that SELFISH principle, in those particular instances, that tend to discover its reigning dominion. And then,

III. SHEW

(a) Ver. 2.

III. SHEW what it is to preach CHRIST JESUS
the LORD.

AND, lastly, improve the whole.

LET us then inquire,

1st, WHAT that SELFISHNESS is, which the apostle here disclaims, &c. And to set this in a proper light, and prevent mistakes, I must observe negatively; 1st. 'Tis not that regular self-love that induces ministers to zeal and faithfulness, in the discharge of their sacred trust, from the consideration of future rewards and punishments. There is a self-love implanted in human nature, that is consistent with compleat rectitude, and therefore is not the effect of our moral depravity. This ADAM had in his state of perfect innocence, or else the promises of rewards would have been no inducement to obedience, nor would the severest threatenings have deterred him, in any measure, from disobedience. 'Tis not therefore a criminal selfishness, for ministers to have a suitable regard to their own future and everlasting interest, and to be influenced to diligence and industry, in their great important work, by motives drawn from those future and eternal realities. 'Twas doubtless agreeable to the GOD of HEAVEN, that EZEKIEL the prophet should be influenced to faithfulness in giving warning, from that awful consideration, that the blood of those that perished, should otherwise be required

at his hand (b).’ And when the apostle urged TIMOTHY to ‘take heed to himself and his doctrine, and continue in them;’ he would have him influenced by these considerations, that he ‘should save himself, and them that heard him (c).’ Nor was even ST. PAUL entirely above the influence of this motive, when he gave this reason, why ‘he kept his body under subjection; lest when he had preached to others, himself should be a cast-away (d).’ It was not an unreasonable selfishness in the prophet ISAIAH, to take encouragement under all his complaints, and be animated in his work, from the consideration, that ‘though ISRAEL was not gathered, yet he should be glorious in the eyes of the LORD (e).’

2dly, THIS disclaiming ourselves, does not imply a total disregard to our reputation and character among men; for, on this, the success of our ministry, and consequently the advancement of the REDEEMER’S kingdom, may, in some measure, depend. If the character of a gospel-minister is stained with false and ill-natured aspersions; this tends to mar his influence, and consequently his usefulness: It is therefore no ways inconsistent with a gospel self-denial, to seek a vindication of himself, and his abused reputation. The apostle himself does so, in this and his other epistles, and says, no man shall stop him in this boasting (f). It ever becomes the ministers of CHRIST to have a tender regard to their reputation

b Ezek. iii. 17, 18. c 1 Tim. iv. 16. d 1 Cor. ix. 27. e Isai. xlix. 5;
f 2 Cor. xi. 10.

and character, as subservient to the great ends of their ministry, and in which the honor of CHRIST, and the interest of RELIGION, is nearly concerned. It becomes a bishop to be blameless, and an officer in the church of GOD to be of good report (g); yea, and to maintain the authority of his sacred character, 'and let no man despise him (h).' Indeed, if our reputation, among men of carnal corrupt minds, suffers for our faithfulness in the discharge of our sacred trust, and 'men speak all manner of evil against us falsely for Christ's sake (i)' (which is not at all uncommon); in this case, our honor, interest, and reputation, and even life itself is to be given up, and made a willing sacrifice to the honor and interest of JESUS CHRIST; 'not counting our own life (much less our name and reputation) dear, that we may finish our course with joy, and the ministry we have received of the LORD JESUS (k).

BUT, 2dly, and positively, The selfishness here disclaimed is, in general, that which stands in direct opposition to the honor of GOD, and the interest of JESUS CHRIST; which sets up SELF in the room and place of GOD, in our estimation, affections, intentions, and pursuits; and disposes us to love and value ourselves, in the same manner we ought to love and value the God of Heaven, to prefer our honor to his honor, and our interest to the interest of JESUS CHRIST; and, in a word, to regard ourselves supremely, and seek ourselves ultimately and finally, and to be influenced inordinately, in one shape or other,

g 1 Tim. iii. 7. h Tit. ii. 15. i Matt. v. 11. k Acts xx. 24.

other, by mercenary views, and selfish motives, in all we do. It is, therefore, nothing less, on the whole, than a direct contending with the GOD of HEAVEN, and maintaining a dispute with him, who shall be most loved and regarded by us, HE OR WE, and whose honor and interest shall be primarily and ultimately pursued, HIS OR OUR OWN.

BUT, more particularly, This selfishness in public preaching, may be considered both materially and formally, or as it respects the subject-matter, and the formal manner, of our preaching.

1st, THEN ministers may be said to preach themselves, when the matter of their public preaching is such, as tends rather to promote self-honor and self-interest, than the honor of GOD, and the interest of JESUS CHRIST. When the substance of their sermons, is only 'the enticing words of man's wisdom (1),' calculated rather to gratify men's curiosity with pleasing speculations, than to pierce their hearts with pungent convictions; and has a greater tendency to please their fancies, than to convert and save their souls. When, in the matter of their preaching, they conform to men's vitiated taste, and corrupt humors, and rather soothe and flatter, than strive to awaken and alarm their consciences; endeavoring rather to win them to themselves, and gain them over to their own self-interest, than to win them to CHRIST, and convert them to GOD. In a word, we are awfully guilty of this criminal selfishness, when our sermons mons have rather a tendency in their very matter and composition to commend ourselves, than to commend the LORD JESUS CHRIST; and to beget, in the corrupt hearts of our hearers, an esteem of our persons, gifts, and abilities; rather than of the person, glory, and offices of the great REDEEMER, the ever-adorable GOD-MAN, JESUS CHRIST.

2dly, THIS selfishness respects the form, as well as the matter of our preaching, i. e. the governing principle from which we act in our public ministry, and the ultimate end we have in view. And this is, doubtless, the principal thing here intended; for be the matter of our preaching ever so good, yet SELF may be the root and bottom of it all, and the object of our principal aim. Nothing is more evident, than that we may do the work of GOD, and that which is really so, as to the matter or thing done; and yet not do it for GOD, as to the formal manner, but rather for ourselves. Thus JEHU did the work of the LORD, when he executed the vengeance of JEHOVAH on the house and family of wicked AHAB; and when he broke down the images of BAAL, and restored ISRAEL from idolatry; and yet he did it not FOR GOD, but FOR HIMSELF, as appears by his proud boast, ‘Come, see my zeal for the LORD of HOSTS. (m).’

IT is not at all inconsistent to say, that ministers may calculate their SERMONS, both as to MATTER, METHOD, and manner of DELIVERY, so as to have an aptitude and tendency to answer the great ends of preaching, and yet may PREACH THEMSELVES, as to the PRINCIPLE from which they act, and the ULTIMATE END they have in view. Nor is it at all to be wondered at, if in a time when the most zealous, lively, and practical preaching, the most earnest addresses to the heart and conscience, are in vogue, and tend most to recommend the preacher, and promote his reputation, that mere selfish principles should induce men to attempt it, and even strive to excel in it. So that, though we preach ever so well, as to the matter and method of our sermons, and with ever so much apparent zeal and fervor, in the delivery of them; yet if we fail as to the formal manner, and aim chiefly and ultimately at ourselves, our honor, interest and reputation; we are found guilty of that criminal SELFISHNESS which the apostle disclaims, and are making IDOLS of ourselves, by treating ourselves in the manner we ought to treat the GREAT GOD of heaven and earth. This is the SELFISHNESS HERE DISCLAIMED, and this it is, for men to PREACH THEMSELVES. I am,

m 2 Kings xx. 16.

Idly, To consider some of the operations of this corrupt principle, in those particular instances that tend to discover its reigning dominion. In all un-sanctified hearts, SELF, in one shape or another, is ever uppermost, and has an intire ascendancy, and governing influence, in every thing they do. When, therefore, men of this character take upon them the office of the gospel-ministry, SELF must be their grand motive, motive, and their principal inducement. For, though a faithful discharge of this important trust requires more SELF-DENIAL, than any employment under the sun; yet there are many things in the sacred office, that may be alluring baits to men of corrupt and selfish minds. A tolerable maintenance, or comfortable subsistence in the world, may be an inducement to such as know not better how to provide for themselves: Who, like the unjust steward, are 'unwilling to dig, and ashamed to beg (n),' and therefore chuse this rather than a meaner employment. Thus, in the degenerate times of the church of old, men would 'crouch for a piece of silver, and say, 'Put me, I pray thee, into the priest's office, that I may eat a piece of bread (o).' And hence that bitter complaint, that 'the priests taught for hire, and the prophets divined for money (p);' and on this account, they were called 'greedy dogs that could never have enough, and shepherds that did not understand, looking every one for his gain from his quarter (q).' Let none understand me, as though I insinuated, that ministers have not a right to insist on a sufficient maintenance, and an honorable support; for, whatever a carnal selfish world may imagine, it will be found true at last, that GOD (and not man) 'hath ordained that they, who preach the gospel, should live of the gospel (r).' Nor do I in the least doubt, but that the too-general neglect of this duty among people to their ministers, n Luke xvi. 3. o 1 Sam. ii. 36. p Mic. iii. 22. q Isa. lvi. 22. r 1 Cor. ix. 14.

ministers, is one of the crying and provoking sins of the present day. (See Mal. iii. 8, 9, 10) What I am proving is, that SELF, in its reigning dominion, may influence men to undertake the sacred employment, with such fordid views. And this is necessarily supposed, in the apostle's frequent exhortations to ministers, 'not to be greedy of filthy lucre (f), nor be given to filthy lucre (t), nor teach things for filthy lucre's sake (u).' The inducement of the apostle himself (as of every other faithful minister) was vastly different. A NECESSITY, says he, 'is laid upon me, and woe is me if I preach not the gospel (w).' And he could say, with the utimost sincerity, to the CORINTHIAN church, 'I seek not yours, but you (x).'

AGAIN, A life of study, and an opportunity to furnish the mind with the various improvements of human science, may be an inducement to those who have a turn for speculation, and would be willing to shine and make some figure in literature, from mere selfish principles, to undertake the ministry. And, WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT, SIR? The supposed ease and indolence of a minister's life, by those who know nothing of the many cares, fatigues and perplexities of it, may possibly induce a selfish man, who is willing to favor the flesh, to enter upon it. Nor is it at all unlikely, that the reverence and respect shewn to the sacred character among men, may influence

fluence those who are chiefly seeking themselves, 'Tis agreeable to a proud selfish mortal, to be looked upon and respected as the leader and guide of the people, and to have others dependent on him, and 'receive the law at his mouth (y).'

Now, when such alluring baits, as these, are the principal inducements to the ministry; the reigning dominion of a selfish principle is exceedingly evident. And as these undertake the sacred employment for THEMSELVES, and not for GOD, so they will ever 'preach themselves, and not CHRIST JESUS the LORD.' For the same principle, while uppermost in their hearts, will attend and govern them, in every branch of their ministerial conduct. It will go with them into their private studies, and there will chuse their subject, form and methodize their sermons, and often times make them more attentive to mere words and ornaments, than to the sacred truths of GOD. And hence, instead of plain and serious addresses, that might tend to MELT and CHANGE hard and unchanged HEARTS, they will abound with trifling speculations, set off with glittering toys, with figures of rhetoric, and arts of elocution. Or, instead of instructing their people, in the great things that concern their everlasting welfare, they go beyond their capacity, and teach them nothing, but that they are able to speak unprofitably and unintelligibly. SELF will often dispose them to take off the edge, and dull the life of their teachings, under a pretence of filing

off the roughness, and smoothing the diction. And if a plain and cutting passage occurs, it will cast it away as too rustical and ungrateful. Thus in their preparations for public service, instead of consulting seriously, "What shall I say, and how shall I say it, "so as best to please and glorify GOD, and do good "to the souls of men:" SELF will make them consult, "What shall I say, and how shall I deliver it, "so as to be thought an excellent preacher, and to "be admired and applauded by all that hear me."

AND, when SELF has done its work in their study, and made their sermon, it will attend them even to the pulpit, and there it will form their very countenance and gesture, and modulate their voice, and animate their delivery, and put the very accent and emphasis upon their words and syllables, that all may be calculated to PLEASE, rather than to PROFIT, and to recommend THEMSELVES, and secure a vain applause, rather than recommend JESUS CHRIST, and secure his interest in the hearts of men.

AND, when the sermon is ended, SELF goes home with the preacher, and makes him much more solicitous to know whether he is admired and applauded, than whether he has prevailed for the awakening and conversion of souls. And so powerful is this principle in some, that they could even be glad in their hearts (were it not for shame) to ask their hearers, in direct terms, whether they like, admire, and applaud their labors, and conceive a good opinion of them. But, as this will not do, SELF will put them on some topic of conversation with their hearers, that will tend, if possible, to draw out their own commendation; and, if they can perceive they are highly thought of, they rejoice greatly, as having attained their end: But, if they find they are esteemed but weak, or at best, but common preachers, they are dejected and disappointed, as having missed what they think THE GRAND PRIZE OF THE DAY.

AND hence this false self-seeking heart can be very easy and contented with a general approbation, and applause, without seeing any saving fruit of his labor, from year to year. Or if he desires success in the awakening and conversion of sinners, yet SELF may lie at the bottom of this too; and though it may work differently from the manner above described, yet it may terminate in the same thing in the final issue. SELF may make such as these strive to excel in appearances of real godliness, and in zealous, fervent, practical preaching; yea, it may dispose them to desire success, to affect and change the hearts of their hearers, and they may calculate their discourses for that purpose, and yet aim ultimately at THEMSELVES, and the advancement of their own reputation. What can be more agreeable to a man, who ultimately seeks himself, than to see people throng around him, and crowd in multitudes to hear him, and appear to be affected with what they hear? And to find that he is able to command their attention, and move their passions and affections? And what more pleasing, than to hear himself cried up by them, as the most able and godly preacher in the land, and fam'd through the whole country, as a man of the highest spiritual excellencies, and most successful labor?

I MEAN not to insinuate, that men of such mercenary and corrupt principles are like to be very successful, for though IT IS POSSIBLE THEY MAY DO GOOD, and GOD may bless what means he pleases; yet it seems MORE PROBABLE, that, as they labor not for GOD, but for THEMSELVES, he will leave them to THEMSELVES for the success: And that their labors will have no greater blessing, than THEMSELVES are able to give, and that their words, how pungent soever, will reach no farther than their own strength is able to make them. But what I have asserted, is, That SELF may make men desire SUCCESS, so far as it may tend to the advancement of their reputation. Again,

SOMETIMES this selfish disposition will work up envious and bitter thoughts, against all those who they imagine stand in their light, or, by out-shining them, eclipse their glory, and hinder the progress of their idolized reputation. Hence they are inwardly vexed and mortified, when a preference is given to the names and parts of their brethren, as if all the praise, given to others, was injuriously taken from them, and that THEY THEMSELVES were not so particularly noticed, respected and esteemed, as their partial selfish judgement imagines they ought to be. And this often lays a foundation for jealousy, suspicion, cion, and alienation, as if they were carrying on two different and contrary interests. It is this also, that makes some so tenacious of their own opinions, that they almost claim infallibility, and are ever impatient of contradiction or controul. They esteem and value the man, that will say as they say, and be of their opinion, and promote their reputation; but he, who will dare to differ from, or contradict them, is not to be borne with. O, SIRs! it is impossible to trace out all the corrupt workings of this detestable and pernicious principle, or to mention the innumerable mischiefs it has occasioned in the church of GOD. It was this that raised antichrist, by several gradual and progressive steps, to his present tyrannical dignity. It was this that enkindled the flames of persecution, in the several periods of the christian church, and stained the earth with the crimson gore of human blood; and it is this disturbs and rends christian societies, and divides them into different interests, and different parties, and fills them with bitterness against one another. 'O may the LORD in mercy deliver us from ourselves, as our worst enemy; and from the power and dominion of selfishness, as the forest plague that can befall us on this side hell!'

BUT I have dwelt too long on this disagreeable subject, and shall therefore pass to the THIRD GENERAL HEAD, Which was to shew, WHAT IT IS TO PREACH CHRIST. 'We preach not ourselves, but CHRIST JESUS the LORD.'

And

And this also must be considered both MATERIALLY, and FORMALLY, or as it respects the SUBJECT MATTER, and the FORMAL MANNER of our preaching.

1st, As it respects the MATTER; it includes in general, the whole sum of gospel-doctrine, relating to man's salvation by JESUS CHRIST; the original contrivance, the meritorious impetration, and actual application of it, through his blood and Spirit; the fall of man, 'by one man's disobedience (z),' and the guilt and ruin of a fallen state necessarily supposed; the original purposes of God's love and grace, that issued in the gift of his dear Son; the glory of his person as GOD, the eternal relation he sustained to the Father, his substitution as a surety, and designation to the office of Mediator, his voluntary contract in the covenant of Redemption, which made way for his mysterious Incarnation; his holy Life, his meritorious and cruel Death, his powerful Resurrection, triumphant Ascension, and perpetual prevailing Intercession; the complete Atonement he made, and the everlasting Righteousness he hath brought in; together with the various offices he sustained, both in his state of humiliation and exaltation; the methods of divine operation, in the work of effectual calling; the nature and use of divine faith, to apply his blood and righteousness; the blessings consequent on believing, justification, adoption, sanctification, perseverance in grace, and consummation in glory; perfect-

perfection of holiness at death, and the complete happiness of soul and body at the resurrection, in the full enjoyment of GOD to all eternity. These, and all other gospel-truths, supposed by them, included in them, and consequent upon them, relating to JESUS CHRIST, are to be the SUBJECT MATTER of our preaching; all which are summarily comprehended, in the three characters mentioned in the Text, CHRIST JESUS THE LORD. CHRIST the MESSIAH, the anointed of GOD, qualified for, and set apart to the office of Mediator; JESUS the Savior of men, who saves his people from their sins, both from the guilt and power, and finally from the punishment of them, by working out for them a righteousness to be imputed, and by working in them a righteousness implanted: THE LORD, the great Head and King of his Church, who has its government on his shoulders, and to 'whom all power is given in heaven and upon earth (a);' to whom all homage and obedience are due, and to whom is committed, as a person every way qualified and worthy, the sole management of the solemn transactions of the grand and final JUDGEMENT.

BUT particularly, 1st, To PREACH CHRIST, is to hold him forth, not merely as a LAW-GIVER, to be obeyed; but chiefly as a LAW-FULFILLER, to be believed in, for pardon, righteousness, and everlasting life. To represent him to poor perishing sinners,

sinners; as a surety, who has undertaken, in their room and stead, to pay the DEBT of DUTY, and of PENALTY, for which divine justice has them under an arrest; to atone for the crimes for which they are under sentence, and work out for them a complete and perfect righteousness, answerable to the strict demands of his unchangeable law. How honorably soever we may speak of JESUS CHRIST, as a ruler to be obeyed, and as a pattern to be imitated; yet, if we do not exhibit him to view, as the great LAW-FULLFILLER, to be believed in, and as 'the end of the law for righteousness (b),' we do not properly PREACH CHRIST; but conceal a most essential branch of his mediatorial excellency, It is the grand fundamental article of the religion of CHRIST, and the ground of all our hopes, 'that he suffered for us, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to GOD (c);' that he not only died FOR OUR GOOD (as the SOCINIANS say, to set us an example how to suffer with patience;) but that he died 'in our room and stead,' and was 'made sin for us' by imputation, that we, by imputation, might be made righteous in the sight of GOD through him (d).'

2dly, TO PREACH CHRIST, is to exhibit to view his infinite divine FULLNESS, and the freeness of his unbounded GRACE, his almighty POWER to save, and his WILLINGNESS to exert that power; that in him is to be found, all that righteousness that the law requires, and all that grace that the gospel promises; promises; and, in short, every thing that a poor, guilty, helpless, sin-burdened, and law-condemned sinner can possibly want; and that all the blessings of his atonement are freely offered, ‘without money, and without price (e).’

3dly, To PREACH CHRIST, is to make him the grand center of all the variety of subjects we enter upon, in the whole CREDENDA and AGENDA of religion. If we treat of the nature and perfections of the Deity, we are to consider them, as displayed, most eminently, ‘in the face of JESUS CHRIST (f).’ If we exhibit to view the divine law, in its strictness and spirituality, we are to remember CHRIST, ‘as the end of the law for righteousness (g).’ If we denounce its dreadful ‘curse against every one that continues not in all things written in the book of the law to do them (h); ’tis that ‘the law, as a school-master, may bring them to CHRIST, that they may be justified by faith (i).’ If we treat of gospel-promises, and gospel-blessings, we must consider them as purchased by the BLOOD, and distributed by the bounty and grace of CHRIST. If we discourse upon divine faith, CHRIST must be considered as ‘the author and finisher,’ as well as the ‘direct object of it.’ If we treat of repentance, ’tis ‘CHRIST exalted at the right hand of GOD,’ that must give it, and the remission of sins (k); and CHRIST crucified, and viewed by faith, that must be the first spring of it.

d Mai. iv. 1. f 2 Cor. iv. 6. g Rom. x. 4. h Gal. iii. 10, 24. i Heb. xi. 2. k Acts v. 31.

If we treat of gospel-obedience, it must be considered as the genuine fruit of faith in CHRIST, and union to him; springing from 'constraining love (l) to,' and performed by strength and grace, derived from the LORD JESUS CHRIST; and accepted altogether, on account of the merit of his obedience and death. In a word, CHRIST must be considered, as 'all, and in all (m),' as the 'ALPHA and OMEGA, the beginning and the end (n);' the fountain from which ALL is derived, and the center in which ALL must terminate: his righteousness is ALL in justification; his spirit and grace ALL in sanctification; and the enjoyment of him, ALL in glorification. This is to PREACH CHRIST, as to the MATTER of our preaching. And then,

2dly, As to the FORMAL MANNER, it implies, That we aim at the honor and glory of CHRIST, and the advancement of his interest, as our ultimate and final end. This is, doubtless, the principal thing intended, in opposition to those mercenary views, and selfish aims, that were mentioned before. Men may speak much about JESUS CHRIST in their sermons, and yet not properly PREACH CHRIST; yea, they may PREACH CHRIST too, as to the matter of their preaching, in all the instances above described, and yet not do it FOR CHRIST, but for THEMSELVES. And thus they may make CHRIST himself, and the precious doctrines of the gospel, only subservient to the advancement of the grand IDOL,

IDOL, SELF. To PREACH CHRIST, then, is to make his honor and interest the center of all our labor and industry; the mark on which we fix our eye, and towards which we endeavor to steer, in all our private studies, and public administrations, and in every instance of our ministerial conduct. Our business is to commend CHRIST, and not OURSELVES; to win the hearts of men to him, and not to ourselves; and attach them to his interest, rather than our own. And as this must be the ultimate proposed end, so those means must be chosen, that have the most natural tendency to accomplish it; even such methods and manner of address, as will tend to pierce the obdurate hearts, and wound the stupid consciences of sleepy secure sinners, by making them feel the ruin of their fallen state, their guilt and condemnation by the law, and the absolute impossibility of obtaining a personal legal righteousness: That they may effectually see their need of CHRIST, both as a surety to pay their law-debt, and as a 'fountain to wash in from sin and from uncleanness.'

THE rich and unbounded treasures of gospel grace are also to be laid open, and gospel invitations to be exhibited in their free and indefinite terms, urged with the most powerful motives, and persuasive arguments, that can be drawn from love, or from wrath, from heaven, or from hell; and from all the glorious and dreadful things of an unseen eternal world.

LET me now endeavor to IMPROVE this subject, by an inference or two, from each of the principal

foregoing heads; and then conclude, with a particular APPLICATION. And, 1st, If ministers are not to PREACH, or to seek THEMSELVES, in the execution of the sacred office; then none can ever discharge this important trust acceptably in the sight of GOD, who are under the reigning dominion of MERCENARY and SELFISH PRINCIPLES. I have observed before, that when man fell from GOD, by original apostacy, he retired as it were into HIMSELF, and is ever since disposed supremely to love, and ultimately to seek, HIMSELF, as his last and final end. SELFISHNESS then, in one shape or another, is now the reigning, active principle in fallen nature, and has the intire dominion in every heart that is unrenewed and un sanctified: as therefore un sanctified men, have no governing principle but SELF, and can act from no higher principles than they have; how can they be qualified for a faithful discharge of that work, which requires so much SELF-RENUNCIATION? If such as these undertake the ministry, their views must be altogether SELFISH: they study, pray, and preach for THEMSELVES, and make THEMSELVES the grand center of all they think, and speak, and do; 'Seeking their own things, and not the things of CHRIST JESUS (o);' preferring their honor to his honor, and their interest to his interest; and therefore, they are guilty of idolatry, by setting themselves uppermost in their estimation, affections, designs, and pursuits.

And

o Phil. ii. 21.

And if I should grant, that such as these may be useful in the ministry, yet surely the undertaking will be awfully hazardous to the SOULS committed to their charge, and the consequence extremely dreadful to themselves, for ‘when they have preached to others, themselves will be finally rejected and cast away(p).’

2dly, If the business of gospel-ministers be, to PREACH CHRIST; hence see the honor and dignity of their office. No other than a glorious CHRIST, the anointed of GOD, the darling of heaven, and the beloved of angels and saints, is the subject of their ministry; from him their authority and commission is derived, in his valuable interest they are engaged to speak, as ‘ambassadors in his name and stead.’ Their office is therefore honorable, in some proportion to the dignity of the sovereign, from whom they receive commission; the grandeur of the court, in whose interest they are employed as EMBASSADORS, and the important errand they have to transact with guilty men. And as they are engaged for CHRIST, and imployed by him to act as EMBASSADORS IN HIS NAME, he hath declared that he will regard the treatment they meet with as if done to himself: ‘He that receiveth you, says he, receiveth me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth me, and him that sent me (q).’ Were we acting a part for OURSELVES, and speaking in our own name, and driving on our own self-interests,

men might treat us as they pleased: But if we act as ambassadors for CHRIST, in pursuit of his interest, and in his name and stead, let them take heed how they despise the SACRED CHARACTER we sustain, or neglect the SOLEMN MESSAGES we bring. But I must not dwell on these inferences, the time being far elapsed.

PERMIT me, therefore, now, with all humility, to address myself particularly to the venerable members of this SYNOD, with all others of the sacred character here present.

My reverend FATHERS, and dear BRETHREN!

THE SUBJECT I have now been handling, will necessarily lead me to great freedom, and plainness of speech; yet I will not entertain so dishonorable a thought of any of you, as to imagine an apology necessary: Nor will I doubt your candid acceptance of what shall now be said, though by one of the meanest of the sacred character, who would gladly sit at your feet and learn, and who is willing to stand corrected and reprov'd by you.

LET what we have heard, in the first place, lead us into our own hearts, to examine in the presence of an all-seeing GOD, whether we have not too much of this abominable selfish principle still lurking within us, and too little singleness of heart for GOD, and JESUS CHRIST. Do we never shrink into diffidence and neglect, in cases of duty, through the power and prevalence of that soothing temptation,

tion, SPARE THYSELF? Do we never find this detestable enemy strive to encroach on the rights of the Godhead, and assume the honor and regard that is due to JESUS alone. Does it never creep into our studies, and seek to have a hand in our preparations for the sanctuary of the LORD, and dispose us to consult how to PLEASE, rather than how to PROFIT; and how our own interest may be secured in the esteem and affections of our hearers, rather than how the INTEREST and KINGDOM of CHRIST may be advanced? And when we enter the pulpit, with a message from heaven to guilty men, are we never too thoughtful of the notices and observations of our poor fellow mortals round about us, and too little sensible of the all-seeing eye of JEHOVAH upon us, and the vast and inexpressible weight of the errand on which we come? Are we never too solicitous about mere external appearances that attend our delivery, and too little so, about the spiritual frame of our hearts, in the sight of GOD? Are we never tempted by this pernicious principle, to play the hypocrite before our hearers, with a greater show of zeal and fervor, and devotion, than is answerable to the inward state and frame of our minds? If at any time we find ourselves dead and barren, and have but little clearness or freedom, we are dejected; our hearts are depressed and sunk within us; but from whence is this dejection? Is it because we have done so POORLY for GOD, and been so MISERABLY DEFICIENT in his service?

service? Or only because we have made so INDIFFERENT A FIGURE in the eyes of our fellow-men? On the other hand, when we find some enlargement and freedom, a readiness of thought, and fluency of expression, and feel some suitable degree of zeal and fervor; does a selfish, deceitful heart, never prompt us to a sort of SELF-COMPLACENCY, and delight in OURSELVES? And if we are pleased, that GOD has enabled us, in any measure, to be FAITHFUL; yet, are we never too much elated with the approbation and applause of our poor fellow-mortals?

AND, when our public performances are ended, what is the object of our greatest solicitude? Whether sinners are awakened and won to CHRIST? Or, whether we ourselves are held in high esteem? Whether the word preached has gained their hearts for GOD; or whether it has gained for us their pleasing approbation? And does this selfish principle never direct or influence our conduct, among the people of our charge? Are we not often best pleased with the company and society of those, who (perhaps too partial in our favor) may gratify our vanity with their professions and tokens of esteem and friendship? And do we not, from the same principle, shun or too much neglect those who appear less friendly, though they need our instruction and advice, as much as others? Do not we too much neglect the duties of private, and particular applications, for fear of offending; and yet frame excuses for

for our neglects, that have too much SELFISHNESS in them? In a word, what did we undertake the ministry for? What do we study, preach and pray, live and labor for? Is it ultimately for GOD, or for OURSELVES? I beseech you, REVEREND AND DEAR SIRs, bear with this plainness and freedom, and let me not be looked upon in the light of an arrogant accuser: far be it from me, to lay any of these things to your charge, or to harbor a doubt of your disinterested zeal for GOD, and victory over SELF. There is but one heart among us, that I have reason to suspect, and, over THAT, I find it necessary to keep a continual watch and guard. And, O! how many are the secret windings and turnings, and different shapes and appearances, of this pernicious adversary SELF! How often does it beset us, when and where we have little expected it, and give us occasion to lament and say, ‘Hast thou found me, O! mine enemy?’ If we find then, on the above-mentioned inquiry, that our self-denial, and deadness to ourselves, is yet very imperfect; let us in the SECOND place, ‘Bitterly bewail it before GOD, with the deepest humiliation.’ For what can be more detestable, or carry a greater malignity in its very nature, than that disposition, that would exalt SELF, in the place of GOD and JESUS CHRIST, and as it were contend with him for the preference, and dispute the point with him, who shall be most loved and regarded by us, HE or WE, and whose honor and interest shall be primarily pursued, HIS or OUR OWN? And how inconsistent is this SELFISHNESS, with that lesson of SELF-DENIAL, that we are obliged to preach to others, and which JESUS has taught us, both by precept and example? Nay, with what face can we recommend SELF-DENIAL to others, while WE are SELFISH; or how can we reprove or condemn the sin in others, that we harbor too much in ourselves? We tell the drunkard, the swearer, the profane sinner, that, 'except he be converted and changed, he cannot be saved,' and is it not as true of us, that we 'cannot be the true disciples,' or faithful ministers, of CHRIST, except we deny ourselves? Does not our LORD himself lay this down as the grand CRITERION, by which he submits his own doctrine and mission to trial, whether it was of GOD, or whether he spake of HIMSELF? 'He that speaketh of himself, says he, seeketh his own glory: But he that seeketh the glory of him that sent him, the same is true (r).'^c I make no doubt, SIRs, but SELFISHNESS, in its reigning dominion, is a greater sin than drunkenness, or whoredom. The one dishonors GOD, by breaking his law; but the other strikes at the very relation of SOVEREIGN and SUBJECT, and contends with him, as it were, for the rights of god-head, and insists upon being above him, in the estimation, affections, intentions, and pursuits. Now, It is one thing to break some particular

ticular laws of a PRINCE, and another to set up to be above him, or to exalt a RIVAL, in his room and stead; the first indeed is transgression, but the other is downright treason and rebellion, and therefore the more heinous! And indeed whatever we do in religion, and how good soever it be, as to the MATTER, or thing done; yet if SELF is the reigning principle, it tarnishes, corrupts, and debases all. And as it is the very essence of holiness to live to GOD, and act entirely for him; so it is horrible wickedness, in the very nature of it, to live to OURSELVES, and act ultimately for ourselves. If, therefore, we find the remains, or secret workings of so corrupt and detestable a principle, let us mourn and be humbled before GOD, and repair by FAITH to him, who once died, 'That they which live, should not live to themselves, but to him who died for them, and rose again(1).'

3dly, LET us ever be watchful against this enemy of GOD, and our souls, and endeavor to suppress the first risings of it. Let us ever remember, 'we are not our own(t);' and therefore have no business to live to ourselves, or regard our interest or reputation, any further than the honor of CHRIST, and the interest of religion is concerned. If GOD has made us, if CHRIST has redeemed us, if, in our ordination, we have solemnly given up ourselves, and our all to him, then certainly WE ARE NOT OUR OWN; and therefore, to appropriate our time and

talents to our own interest and reputation, is a sacrilegious ROBBING OF GOD!

FURTHER, Let us guard against that fear of man, which SELFISHNESS would prompt us to, and which would make us too fond to please, and too fearful to displeas; for if we thus seek to please men, and by that means to advance ourselves, we cannot be the faithful 'servants of JESUS CHRIST u.' And yet, such are the perverse tempers of many we have to deal with, that we are often reduced to an unhappy DILEMMA, and must either offend GOD, or offend them. Poor guilty mortals love to be soothed and flattered, but do not love to be plainly dealt with; hence, such pointed addresses, as tend to discover them to themselves, often excite their resentment. Thus, when our Lord was representing to his hearers, by several parables, the awful destruction that would shortly come upon the final rejecters of the gospel saviour, and the gospel salvation, it is said, 'The chief priests and pharisees perceived that he spake of them(w).' A heinous business indeed! as if it was intolerable insolence for him to speak of them. It is true, they perceived right, he did speak of them, and all others like them; and what then? Why, they are exasperated, and would have laid hands on him, and treated him in a manner they thought he deserved, had it not been that they feared the multitude. And when this is the case, that we must either offend God, or men; whose dis-

displeasure shall we most regard? If carnal SELF be consulted, it will influence us to displease GOD, and to soothe and flatter our fellow-men. But alas! should we make such an awful sacrifice to their corrupt humors, will they undertake to answer it for us? Will they defend us from the displeasure of JEHOVAH, when he shall send for us by death, or sentence us to hell by his righteous judgement? No, they dare not attempt this, nor dare we trust them in this matter. We have one GOD, and one master to please; and he must be obeyed, whether men like or dislike. Our errand to them, is on matter of life and death, the vast importance of which must engage all the powers of our souls. Poor christless sinners are not in a state to be soothed and flattered, or jested and trifled with; heaven and hell are not matters to be talked of in a careless, indolent strain; it is plain dealing such want, whether they like or dislike; such as will tend to make them feel their wretched, miserable state, and awaken their solicitude for deliverance.

AGAIN, our business is to preach CHRIST JESUS the LORD, and exhibit him to view in his personal glory and divine fulness as the law-fulfiller and saviour of sinners; to urge them compassionately to come to him that they might have life, and, on their final refusal, to denounce against them the terrors of eternal death. And besides the inexpressible importance of these things, every consideration from the present providences of GOD, suggests an awakening call to the utmost diligence and painful industry.

The

The GOD of HEAVEN is now thundering an alarm on every side, our country is groaning under ravages and devastations, and all the frightful calamities of WAR and BLOOD! The enemies of ZION are forming a confederacy and saying, 'Let us rase it to the foundation(x).' And who can tell how soon our churches may be demolish'd and beaten into rubbish, and we ourselves called to prison and to death? And what, IN THE NAME OF GOD, shall we do in a day of suffering, if we have not learn'd to DENY OURSELVES, and account our honor, interest, and even life itself, nothing, in comparison of the interest and kingdom of JESUSCHRIST? Or should God in mercy yet spare his church, from the ravages of popish and pagan adversaries, yet as to us, we know our time is short, and the night of death will soon come when no man can work(y). We live in a DYING WORLD, and dwell in regions of mortality, and have lately had frequent and awful notices of the uncertain TENURE of human life. And, shall not WE, who survive, double and redouble our diligence, knowing our time is short, and that, in proportion to the decrease of laborers, the work increases upon our hands. O SIRs! are heaven and hell glorious and dreadful realities? are sinners despising the ONE, and sleeping over the mouth of the OTHER, and are we sent from God to awaken them and shew them their danger; sent to publish a saviour, and invite them to fly from the wrath to come x Psalm cxxvii. 7. The reader will recollect, that this Sermon was preached towards the beginning of the last war, when the French had made their depredations upon our Colonies, and in all probability would have conquered or destroyed them, if God had not blessed the endeavours of Great Britain, who took up arms for their defence. y John ix. 4.

come to his atoning blood, why then, O why don't these important realities swallow up our whole attention? Why don't we make more haste, in plucking sinners as brands from EVERLASTING BURNINGS? Why don't we pray more fervently, and preach more zealously, and lay out our whole life, and soul, and strength in this great work? What? is the interest and happiness of deathless immortal souls worth no more pains? Can we do no more for the honor and interest of our glorious MASTER than this comes to? Shall the men of this world be more painful and industrious, in seeking THEMSELVES, than we in seeking the glory of CHRIST, and the salvation of Souls? GOD FORBID! We are on matters of life and death; we pray, and preach, and labor for eternity; sure it becomes us, then, to do it with all our might. Shall we not be SOLEMN and SERIOUS, when so near that state and place where all are serious? BELIEVE IT, SIRs, there is no trifling in the eternal world, there are none in jest either in heaven or hell. GOD FORBID THEN! that we should jest and trifle with immortal souls, that are just at the door, and upon the borders of an eternal state!

BUT I have too long intruded on your patience, and therefore will now conclude with an address to this assembly.

MY BRETHREN, if the reigning dominion of SELFISHNESS is inconsistent with a ministerial, 'tis equally inconsistent with a truly christian character. Hence, says our LORD, if any man will come after after me let him deny himself, (c). That man, of whatever character, who loves himself supremely, and seeks himself ultimately and finally, and so places SELF in the room of GOD, in his estimation, affections and intention, falls upon a direct method to lose HIMSELF, and GOD, and HIS SALVATION too in the FINAL ISSUE. Did he hate his best interest as bad as the devil hates him, and deliberately consult how he might do himself the greatest mischief, and act the part of the most deadly enemy to his soul and body, he could not fall upon a more effectual method: For what can be more insolent or more provoking to the dread majesty of heaven, than for a poor crawling heap of dust, to claim a preference to him, and challenge more love and regard than he, and live to himself, and prefer his own honor and interest to the honor and interest of him that made him: Nay, to insist upon being his own LORD and MASTER, and having his own will, whatever becomes of GOD's WILL? If such as these are ever happy, they must be able to make themselves so, not only without GOD, but even in despite of GOD, and in direct opposition to him. But alas! can poor mortals be sufficient for their own happiness without GOD, who can't support their existence a single moment, but must soon be carried on men's shoulders to the dark confinement of the grave, and there turn to ROTTENNESS and DUST, and will not be able with all their boasted sufficiency, so much as to lift a finger to remove the worms that will crawl about their hearts, and prey upon their vitals? Can they make themselves happy; in despite of GOD, and carry through that SELF-INTEREST which they have set up in opposition to him? Why, then, they must conquer omnipotence, and do what neither angels nor devils dare attempt! Let such vain mortals try their skill first, let them command yonder sun and moon to stand still, and invert the order of nature, let them change the seasons, and bring snow in harvest, and cause the flowers to spring in winter; and if they find the inanimate creation will obey them contrary to the law of their CREATOR, then, but never, never till then, let them proceed with confidence and courage to set up themselves as their LAST END, or live to themselves as their ULTIMATE FELICITY.

It was the grand design of the death and sufferings of JESUS CHRIST, to recover men from the ruins of their first apostacy, and consequently to save them from themselves, and the dominion of a SELFISH disposition. Hence says the APOSTLE, he died for us, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him who died for them, and rose again(d). Rest not then, I beseech you, till you have a special interest in the blessings of his atonement by divine faith, and the sensible experience of the efficacy of his DEATH and SUFFERING, recovering you from YOURSELVES, YOUR SELF-LOVE, SELF-SEEKING, SELF-

RIGHTEOUSNESS, and SELF-DEPENDENCE, to the supreme love of GOD, and a fiducial dependence on the blood and righteousness of the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

AGAIN, if our business as ministers is to PREACH CHRIST JESUS the LORD, then 'tis your business to receive him into your hearts by faith: And on this depends your everlasting weal or woe, for to as many as receive him gives he power to become the sons of GOD(e); but he that rejecteth him, hath one that will judge him at the last day(f). You see, SIRS, that we are not to preach ourselves, nor aim to recommend ourselves to popular esteem. The question is not, what you think of us, or of our gifts or graces, abilities or public performances; or whether you like or dislike, admire or despise: Think of us as you please, so you do not despise and dishonor our glorious master; But the question is, what you think of CHRIST? who is the grand sum of our message, and whether you cordially receive him into your hearts by faith. If we may be so happy as to join you effectually to CHRIST, we are not so much concerned, whether we win your applause, or gain you over to any interest or party of our own. On the other hand, should you receive and treat us ever so kindly, and give our labors your highest approbation, yet, if you don't receive CHRIST, the grand sum of all the messages we bring, the great end we have in view, is lost; our labor is lost, your precious souls are eternally

f John xii. 48.

nally lost, and you had better never have been born. O SINNERS! here you are, tottering as it were on the brink of BURNING TOPHET, nodding on the very edge of the TREMENDOUS PRECIPICE, just launching into the ETERNAL WORLD, just about to appear at the BAR OF GOD; life is wasting, death is approaching, heaven and hell are glorious and dreadful realities, and a soul, once lost, is irrecoverably lost, and the loss can never, never be retrieved. For the love of GOD then, in the name and bowels of JESUS, and by all the bitter agonies, and unparallel'd sufferings of a bleeding, dying SAVIOUR, we beg, intreat, and beseech you, now, EVEN NOW, to awake and fly from the wrath to come, and receive CHRIST who is the sum of our message, as ever you would have him receive your trembling departing souls in a dying hour. Take him, who is now tendered to you as GOD offers him, to be the LORD your RIGHTEOUSNESS, and the LORD your RULER; to be your PRINCE as well as SAVIOUR; to give you repentance as well as remission of sins(g); and you shall be washed and sanctified as well as justified, in the name of the LORD JESUS, and by the spirit of the living GOD(h).
