NECROLOGICAL REPORT

PRESENTED TO THE

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

OF

PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

AT ITS ANNUAL MEETING

MAY 5th, 1908.

BY THE SECRETARY.

Mr. Dodge was twice married: (1) June 6, 1842, in Evansville, Ind., to Augusta Dupuy, who died Jan. 24, 1856; (2) Feb. 2, 1857, in Evansville, to Mary Eliza Dupuy, who died April 13, 1907. Two daughters survive him.

ALLEN HENRY BROWN, D.D.,

Son of Silas and Olivia (Brown) Brown, was born Sept. 23, 1820, in New York City. He made a public confession of his faith in the Murray Street Presbyterian Church, of New York, at the age of fifteen. His preparatory studies were pursued in New York City under Messrs. Forrest & Wyckoff. The sophomore and junior years of his college course were spent in the New York University and the senior year at Columbia University, from which institution he graduated in 1839. He spent the following year in general study and in attendance upon Dr. Nordheimer's Hebrew class in Union Seminary, New York. He entered the Seminary at Princeton in 1840, taking the full three years' course, and graduating in 1843. He continued his studies there for part of a year as a resident licentiate. During one or two of his summer vacations he travelled widely through New Jersey as a colporteur of the American Tract Society. He was licensed by the Presbytery of New York, April 19, 1843, and ordained an evangelist by the Presbytery of West Jersey, Jan. 5, 1848. He was stated supply of the church at May's Landing, N. J., 1847 to 1860, and then was presbyterial missionary from 1860 to 1870, with his headquarters at Absecon, N. J. He was stated supply at May's Landing and Tuckahoe from 1870 to 1872. He resided during the next year in New York City. In 1874 he was appointed synodical missionary for the Synod of New Jersey, with his residence in Camden, and continued as such until 1886. He was presbyterial missionary for the Monmouth and West Jersey Presbyteries 1887 to 1888, and for the Presbytery of West Jersey alone from 1889 until 1906, when his health made it necessary for him to give up active duties. He then moved to Montclair, N. J., where he died of heart failure Nov. 5, 1907, in the 88th year of his age. He was buried at Stamford, Conn. He received the degree of D.D. from Princeton University in 1905. Dr. Brown was clerk of the Presbytery of West Jersey from October, 1851, to April, 1865. He was a commissioner to the General Assembly in 1857 and 1883; moderator of the Presbytery of West Jersey in 1851 and 1879, and of the Synod of New Jersey in 1885. He was a trustee of both the Synod and Presbytery, being secretary of the Trustees of the Synod, and president of the Trustees of the Presbytery. He was a member of the South Jersey Historical Society and of the Newark Historical Society. Dr. Brown's principal work was the establishment of churches in the destitute and less highly populated parts of the state of New Jersey. He was deeply interested in the history of the Presbyterian church in New Jersey and wrote many monographs upon topics illustrative of it. He obtained the appointment by the Synod of the permanent committee on historic matters, which is now accumulating a collection of historic matter in the Library of Princeton Seminary. It was owing to his labor that the historic monument on the site of the old Scotch Church was erected. Dr. Brown published many pamphlets and articles in connection with his work. Among these are the Twelfth Annual Report of the S. S. Missionary Association of the Duane Street Church, New York, 1839; a Tract on the Practice, Doctrine and Government of the Presbyterian Church, 1851; The Presbyterian Church in West or South Jersey 1700 to 1865, 1869; Early Settlers on the Sea Coast of New Jersey, 1869; Jonathan Pitney, M.D., or Fifty Years' Progress on the Coast of New Jersey, 1886; Historical Sketch of the Synod of New Jersey 1861 to 1886, 1886; Origin and Progress of the Presbyterian Church in South Jersey, 1887; Tribute to the Memory of Rev. Samuel Beach Jones, D.D., 1893; History of the Presbyterian Church of Pilesgrove, or Pitts Grove, 1893.

He was married Jan. 12, 1852, in Lowell, Mass., to Martha Ann Dodge, who died March 11, 1885. One son and two daughters survive him.

WILLIAM WILBERFORCE LORD, D.D.,

Son of John Way and Sarah Bryant (Chase) Lord, was born Oct. 28, 1819, in Madison County, N. Y. He made a public confession of his faith in the First Presbyterian Church of Geneseo, N. Y., at the age of sixteen. His preparatory studies were pursued in Geneseo High School under Principal Charles Wilson, and he graduated from the University of Western New York (no longer existing) in 1837. He spent the first two years of his theological course in Auburn Theological Seminary and entered the Seminary at Princeton as a senior in 1843, remaining one year. He was ordained a deacon in the Protestant Episcopal Church by Bishop Doane in 1848, and ordained to the Episcopal priesthood in 1850. After his ordination he went South and devoted himself to the amelioration of the cholera epidemic at Baltimore and the yellow fever epidemic in various other southern cities. He was rector of Christ Church, Vicksburg, Miss., from 1854 to 1864; of St. Paul's Church, Charleston, S. C., from 1864 to 1870. Coming North at this time he was for many years rector of Christ Church, Cooperstown, N. Y., from which he resigned a few years ago on account of ill health. He continued to reside in Cooperstown during the rest of his life. He died April 22, 1907, in New York City, of heart disease, in the 88th year of his age. He was buried at Cooperstown. He received the degree of D.D. from the University of Alabama in 1859. Dr. Lord was a delegate to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church in 1856. He was president of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Mississippi until the Civil War, and was a member of the Board of Foreign Missions of the P. E. Church in 1857. He was also a member of the Historical Society of New Jersey and of the Historical Society of Virginia. He taught mental
