COLLEGES.

TARKIO.

Tarkio College is located at Tarkio, Atchison Co., Missouri, in the extreme northwestern corner of the State, and is in the bounds of the United Presbyterian Presbytery of College Springs, and under the control of the Synods of Iowa and Nebraska. It was established as a private school in August, 1883. After one year it was transferred to the College Springs Presbytery, and subsequently placed under the control of the Synods of Iowa and Kansas. Still later the Synod of Nebraska was admitted to its control, and Kansas withdrew. Its first President was the late Rev. Samuel C. Marshall, D. D., who was succeeded by the Rev. Joseph A. Thompson.

It has a large and handsome building, and an endowment of $57,000, with good prospect of an increase. Its attendance is good, and growing every year. Its chief benefactor has been the Hon. David Rankin, a member of the United Presbyterian Church at Tarkio, whose contributions have amounted in the whole to more than $40,000.

AMITY COLLEGE

Is located at College Springs, Page Co., Iowa, and originated in the idea of establishing a colony of Christian families on a plan that would insure a permanent fund for an institution of learning of a reformatory character. An association was formed for this purpose in 1854, and a committee of exploration appointed which secured land in Cass and Page Cos., in Iowa, and Nodaway Co., in Missouri. This land, purchased by the company's funds, was sold to stockholders at $2.50 per acre, and the proceeds from the land sold to others than stockholders, were applied to the establishment and maintenance of an institution of learning.

A school was incorporated in 1855, under the name of "Amity College." It was opened with 30 scholars in 1857, by Prof. George P. Kimball, and was conducted as an Academy for fifteen years. The Rev. A. T. McDill took charge of it in 1872, and put it upon a College basis. In 1878 he was succeeded by the Rev. S. C. Marshall, D. D., who enlarged the course of study, and in 1883 he was succeeded by its present President, the Rev. T. J. Kennedy, D. D.

The institution is well housed, partly endowed, carries on six Departments, viz.: Classical, Scientific, Normal, Musical and Art. It has eleven professors, and in 1891 had over 300 students. It is not professedly a denominational college, but it has been largely under the influence and maintained by the patronage of the United Presbyterian Church.

COOPER MEMORIAL COLLEGE.

In October, 1886, the Sterling Land & Investment Company offered to the Synod of Kansas a site of ten acres in Sterling, Rice Co., Kansas, and to erect thereon a College building to cost not less than $25,000. The building to be ready for occupancy by the 10th of September, 1887, upon condition that the Synod would locate its college on the proposed site, operate and maintain it, and raise an endowment fund of $25,000. The Synod accepted the offer, on condition that five years be given to raise the fund.

The name "Cooper Memorial" was given to the College in honor of the Rev. Joseph T. Cooper, D. D., LL. D., a man honored and beloved throughout the Church, whose death had occurred the preceding August. A Senate for the management of the institution was named in the charter. This Senate held its first meeting July 28, 1887, and the doors of the college were opened to students the first of the following November, under Prof. A. N. Porter as acting President. Various circumstances at this time made the work of maintaining and developing the school especially difficult, and the history of the first two years was one of struggle, of doubt and fears. But one by one the difficulties were met and overcome. Rev. F. M. Spencer, D. D., was inaugurated Sept. 4, 1889, as President, and the teaching force was increased. The number of students has also largely increased, and the college has grown in the respect and confidence of the community and Church at large. The Synod of Kansas fulfilled its part of the agreement, and secured the endowment of $25,000, and on the 7th of October, 1891, the deed of the property was transferred to it with appropriate public exercises.
