The last 20 sh. h^ol^d B^r. cost
at 118% prem. are 250 = $545.

If they give now 9%, and in Dec.
10 = 19% will be \$47.50 int. and what cost me \$45. i. e. $\frac{47.50}{545} = 8.64$.
But Dec. at once

9% on 200 of 250 cost is 527. Divide $\frac{47.50}{527} =$ gives 9% an actual cost per annum. But money will not command more than 7%. Hence hope may not lose

At^d the share at 175 prem.
i. e. 562.50 $\frac{47.50}{562.50} = 8.45\%$
