Dear Arthur I rec^d of kind

I was up at Mr Mc Rays &
O^d to John in joke, John the Str

much for the book and loveliness of yr self & yr Mother

I have finish' reading your

for her book to send. viz. Eire

Week before last was the Chicago independence and we had a week's holidays. On the 19th
we went out to see the Soldiers
with papa & small crowd.
My sis much better this year than any of before. Last week was Columbus birth

day; he was 11 yrs old.

It was rather a misty
day and some perhaps we had an earthquake because he was born during an Earthquake

Mrs. is going to Lake George
to see this lake, & Auntie is going south with a friend on the 25th. We have a nice Sch. now; and 5 teachers that teach all day, and 2 that come

I hope you are all well
at y^e home, we are well here. Please thank y^e

Father for me for his kind

Death of Mrs. A. W. Clark.

We are pained to announce the death of Mrs. A. W. Clark which occurred in New York yesterday. She has been a good deal of an invalid for a number of years, and went to New York, we believe, for treatment. She was a woman of uncommon intelligence and worth. Her husband and family have the warmest sympathies of their friends in their great affliction. She was the daughter of Doct. Thomas of Oswego county, whose death was announced in the TIMES a few days since.

DIED.

TELEGRAMA DE LOS ANDES.

18 de noviembre.

Anteayer salieron para Buenos Aires los señores Domingo Toro Herrera y J. J. Beláustegui. Anoche deben haber pasado la cordillera a pié, aprovechando la dureza de la nieve a esa hora.

Ayer llegó el correo argentino con nueve días desde Mendoza. Dice que vienen tres arreos en camino y que hoy debe llegar uno a Las Cuevas.

En el llano de la Calavera y la cumbre queda como un metro de nieve. En este trayecto no pueden todavía pasar animales cargados; es muy peligroso.

Las balijs y equipajes de viajeros son pasados a hombros.

Por este lado la subida a la cumbre se hace por la quebrada del Salto, bajando a Las Cuevas por el Bermejo. La subida de los Caracoles y la bajada de la Iglesia están llenas de nieve.

Diariamente están pasando la cordillera a pié pasajeros de ambos lados sin mayor dificultad.

Los arreos que vienen en camino atropellarán la nieve, dejando mas espedito el camino en unos ocho días mas.

Se cree que hasta fines de diciembre no quedará completamente despejada la cordillera.

Abundante agua arrastan los rios Blanco y Colorado, que forman el corrientoso Aconcagua.

THE LATE
PROF. A. A. HODGE,

D.D. LL.D.

"GOD must surely have had some wonderful work for him to do yonder, in putting short the great work he was doing here." So said a life-long friend of Dr. ARCHIBALD ALEXANDER HODGE, in the bewilderment of sorrow on hearing of his unexpected death. It is a sentiment which has found an echo in many hearts. The Church of God on earth has been made distinctly poorer by the recent summons to this eminent servant of Christ to "come up higher." We could ill afford, it would seem, to spare him. But God reigns, and He doeth all things well. What we know not now, we shall know hereafter. The Christian heart is often called to exercise the faith that is willing to wait.

The younger Hodge held a place all his own in the esteem and affection of the Church. It has sometimes been found that a distinguished paternity is more of a burden than an advantage, in the race of life. But the subject of our sketch had an individuality that could not be dwarfed by comparison with even so great a father as Dr. Charles Hodge. In some departments, indeed, he did not so much as come into competition with him. Even had he lived as long, he would never, for instance, have become as voluminous an author; for he was constitutionally averse to the drudgery of writing. The editorial tact and patience which carried The Princeton Review, "ball and chain," for fifty years, and made a success of it all the time, were quite beyond him. Nor would he ever have grown into the ecclesiastical statesman his father was; for the guidance of church polity and the settlement of cases did not lie much in his way.

On the other hand, he could travel where his father might admire but could not follow. The great qualities of the latter as a theological thinker were inherited at their best by his eldest born—his intuitive insight, his analytic power, his logical force, his comprehensiveness of vision with respect to the relations of truth, his absolute intellectual honesty. On the emotional side of his nature, too, when the upper crust was beaming in the luminousness of some poetic fancy. Dr. Paxton, at his funeral, referred to this "transcendent something" in the younger Hodge, which those who really knew him—not the readers of his books, but his personal intimates, and his students—could not possibly fail to recognise.

sense, they had each, at the same time, his own way of viewing truth, and his own method of presenting it. By the time the writer knew them—father and son—the younger Hodge was beyond question the more impressive teacher of the two; but comparison at that stage would have been palpably unfair to the beloved veteran, the Nestor of Princeton, and of the Church. None rejoiced more than he in his colleague's acceptability, and in the pledge which that opening session gave of continued prosperity

Archibald Alexander Hodge was born in Princeton, New Jersey, in 1823. His father, Dr. Charles Hodge, had been associated, in the preceding year, with his revered former teacher, Dr. Archibald Alexander, as Professor of Oriental and Biblical Literature in Princeton Seminary, and after him he named his firstborn son. The boy's mother was Sarah Bache, the great granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin; a young lady of unusual beauty both of person and of character. He had the untold advantage, in early years, of nurture in a genuinely pious home. As is often in such circumstances the case, he never could recall the time when he first came under religious impressions, though he did not by his own act "join the Church" till 1842.

In his father's house he was brought into contact with some of the brightest intellects of the time. His own development is said to have been slow; yet he graduated in Arts in 1841, and showed such aptitude for mathematics and natural science that he remained for some time in the capacity of tutor by the side of the famous Professor Henry, of Princeton College. In 1843 he definitely entered on the study of theology in Princeton Seminary, from which he graduated in 1847.

To the joy of his father—whose influence did more than the world knows for the heathen abroad—"Archie" gave himself promptly and decisively to the foreign field. The Mission Board thankfully accepted him, and in the autumn he sailed with his young wife for India.

Saturday -

At 4 A.M. John came for horse to go to Placeres Hill. Child, Mr. Jackson chd;
at same hour Annie needed him. Prescub came back at 7. I took express to Limache, he sd. Cooper for Vina; at Station Sinclair asked him to see Mr. Murray. Mr. Jackson's sister offering to send him to Vina by special engine so as to return at 9.30. Jack consented. I found Rosa Blair ready, her uncle Francisco Rodriguez & wife Maria ready & glad that we w^d take her. "had their own children & c^d hardly afford." It seems she has several aunts & uncles in San Felipe who came to her mother during her illness & helped take care of her, but were not pleased at her refusal to confess. An uncle & aunt were in the room the Friday that Edwin & I went out. When I offered prayer the Lia left the room. After the death burial on Saturday p.m. the Lias began to pack up the things to carry away to S. Telipp & threw Rosa's clothes around ad lib., learning this her uncle threatened to send them "precios", forbidding them to take an article.

Before the starting of the train called to see X^m Wissing who said what he desired from Jesus was a new heart. I had read blind Bartimeus & asked wh^o Jesus come now w^h he ask him for sight to wh. he ans^d:- "No." I said "what for then?" & he said "To be good to have a new heart." Jesus explained that sight was a metaphor for spiritual help. It was curious to see how elementary his conceptions were, but his answers showed sincerity & a good conception of what salvation is. I prayed & him - he pressed my hand - His mother asked me to stay to breakfast but I hastened to the in time for the train.

The Lia Maria went & us to station - a friend brought a large quantity of flowers & said goodbye to Rosa - Met Sarah Smith coming in with her sister Anna who was ailing; expecting Mrs Edwards, Dona Juana, from Elgo & therefore declining my protection gratefully.

After entering the train I missed my wallet cont^g a few dollars & two tickets & a bolts luggage. I did not find it anywhere - Conductor let me off, & baggage master gave it up.

John reports that Mrs Treleven is very ill. Jackson child better. I felt very weary before dinner but a little rest & a glass of ale set me up.

At 7 Fraser came saying Mrs J. was very ill sinking they thought, & poor John was summoned back again having just sat down to dinner.

Annie has slept this afternoon & is by Jack.
Hattie reported to be very much better - wh. is an immense relief.

THE ANDOVER DECISION.

After many weeks of delay, the Andover Visitors have rendered their decision in the case of the Andover professors arraigned for heresy. The decision convicts Prof. Smyth "of maintaining and inculcating beliefs inconsistent with and repugnant to the creed of the institution" upon the following points, namely: "That the Bible is not 'the only perfect rule of faith and practice,' but is fallible and untrustworthy even in some of its religious teachings; that no man has power or capacity to repent without knowledge of God in Christ; that there is and will be probation after death for all men who do not decisively reject Christ during the earthly life." The Visitors, therefore, adjudge the decree that Prof. Smyth be removed from the office of Brown Professor of Ecclesiastical History, and his office is declared vacant.
